Beryl 8 Plus Public Company Limited

Code of Conduct

For Directors, Executives, and Employees

(As approved by the Board of Directors' Meeting No. 5/2023 held on November 9, 2023)

Implementation Scope

Beryl 8 Plus Public Company Limited (the “Company”) has established a code of conduct (the “Business code of conduct”) as a standard practice that applies to company directors, executives, and employees at all levels to follow in accordance with their assigned duties. It also encourages executives to act as a good role model in their performance under the business code of conduct. It is important that the company executives and employees acknowledge, understand, and strictly follow the code to ensure that their performances are effective, open, transparent, based on maximum benefit to the company, and fair to all interested persons.

This business code of conduct is applied to all company directors, executives, and employees.

“Executives” refers to the Chief Executive Officer and all executives from the positions under the Chief Executive Officer to the functional heads.

“Employees” refers to the company employees whose positions are below the Chief Executive Officer to functional heads including permanent employees, temporary staffs, special contractors, and outsourced workers.

Best Practices

1. Conflict of Interest Policy

1.1 Executives

The company must follow the Stock Exchange of Thailand’s regulation. The executives must consider the conflict of interest relevant to the company and its subsidiaries cautiously, honestly, reasonably, and independently under the good ethical frame and based on the company’s benefit to ensure that such issues are reasonable and beneficial to the company.

1.2 Employees

1.2.1 Employees should avoid any actions that create the conflict of interest with the company either by contacting the parties involving the company’s trading such as business partners, customers, competitors, or by seeking opportunities or data received from being a company employee to gain his/her own benefits, or by doing business that is considered as competitors to the company.

- 1.2.2 Employees must not work for another person or organization which offers remuneration during company's office hours unless prior approval in writing by the Chief Executive Officer or his assignee.
- 1.2.3 Employees must protect the company's benefit with his best effort.
- 1.2.4 Employees must not act or perform any operations which may create a conflict of interest with the company directly or indirectly.
- 1.2.5 Employees must not involve in any business operations which may impact the company's benefit or compete with the company's business.

2. Usage and Maintenance of the Company's Assets and Information/Secret Policy

- 2.1 Any procedures, processes, thoughts, and technical knowledge or other knowledge and/or techniques related to the business or company's operation which come from thoughts, studies, researches, and/or any actions from the operation according to the duties and employment contract of the executives and employees in any case would be considered as company's intellectual property, with or without legal registration. Distribution of such properties is prohibited unless having approval from the Chief Executive Officer or his assignee in writing.
- 2.2 During the course of employment, and within one year from the employment termination date, if the executives or employees can access to the company's information, classified as "trade secrets", they agree to maintain confidentiality of all the "trade secrets" they have or know during working for the company. They agree to hand it in to the company and not to give to other parties or duplicate it without a permission and not to disclose or do any actions that harm the company's reputation or damage the company's business. They are not allowed to be hired as executives or employees or give advice or support or make agreements with any juristic persons or company's competitors or any business similar to the company's business in such period.

For interpretation purpose, "a trade secret" refers to commercial information which is not commonly known or still inaccessible among the people who should normally know. It is the information containing competitive advantage because it's a secret and the company has used a proper measure to keep it confidential. The trade secret may be part of the company's regulation, contract, or agreement that has been started or soon to be addressed or based on the Trade Secret Act B.E. 2545 (including its amendment).

- 2.3 Executives or employees must not work for another person or organization which offers remuneration during company's office hours unless approved in writing by the Chief Executive Officer or his assignee.
- 2.4 Executives or employees must not take any action considered as a conflict of interest to the company directly or indirectly, either by oneself or others.
- 2.5 Executives or employees must not take/utilize the company's assets for commercial purpose or personal interest. The usage must only be for the company's benefit.
- 2.6 Executives or employees must strictly follow the company's information system policy. For example,
- They must not invade other's privacy in any circumstances.
 - They must not access the company's confidential information, unless they're the executives or employees who are responsible for such information.
 - They must stick to the rules and regulations regarding the usage of the equipment and devices of the computer system.
 - They must not access the information or document files of other users without permission.
- 2.7 Executives or employees must acknowledge and follow the guideline to the proper use of the computer and network system.
- 2.8 Unauthorized software installation or saving on the company's computer system is prohibited unless proceeding through the company's Software Installation Procedure and regulations.
- 2.9 The internet usage or the internet system connection of employees for data transferring purpose must not be against the law or relevant regulations. For example, they must not transmit obscene pornography, send or receive information or news through electronic system which is against the copyright law, or against the purpose or objective of the company's policies or regulations, or violates the Computer-Related Crime Act B.E. 2550 (including its amendment) or any other laws. It is advised that the employees follow the company's Information Security Policy.
- 2.10 During the course of employment, executives or employees must not intentionally do or refrain from doing any action which leads to the damage to the company by any false or incorrect information, news, and/or reports, memorandums, or communication regardless of the methods.

- 2.11 Executives or employees must not commit piracy, or violate copyright of the company or other companies who grant permission to the company to utilize their computer programs as part of the agreement and/or by any methods, and/or duplicate, modify, disclose to the public or lease an original or a copy, either with commercial or non-commercial purpose. Failure to comply will lead to the immediate termination of the employment contract.
- 2.12 Executives or employees must use the company's assets with care. They are responsible for keeping devices provided by the company in good condition and request a repair when the devices are in unusable condition.
- 2.13 Executives or employees must not violate the company's regulations or orders which could lead to accidents or damages to the company's assets.
- 2.14 Executives or employees must protect the company's assets from loss or damage even though such asset is not directly under his/her own responsibility.
- 2.15 Executives or employees must not use the company's equipment or assets for purposes other than for the company's benefit.
- 2.16 All executives or employees must keep secret information between the company and customers, partners of contract, business partners, or other parties.
- 2.17 Executives or employees must understand the process and methods of the information security and follow strictly to prevent unintended secret information leakage.
- 2.18 The Chief Executive Officer or person assigned will make the decision for information disclosure to public.
